NOTICE TO MARINERS.

No. 15 (SPECIAL).

CHINA SEA.

SHANGHAI DISTRICT.

SOUTHERN ENTRANCE TO THE YANGTZE.

A SURVEY of a section of the SOUTHERN ENTRANCE to the YANGTZE, extending about 17 miles outwards from the SMALL KIUTOAN BEACON, which was completed on the 6th instant, proves that the "Middle Ground," shown on the British Admiralty Chart, No. 1,602, corrected to May, 1888, has extended bodily in a north-easterly direction to a distance varying from $\frac{1}{10}$ to $\frac{1}{7}$ of a mile, and in a north-westerly direction about 2 miles; while to the south-eastward it has joined with the flats extending from the south-western shore of the river.

Notice is hereby given, therefore, that, on or about the 4th JANUARY, 1892, the following changes will be made, to suit the alterations that have taken place in the channel:—

The Lightship Kintoan will be shifted 2¼ cables to the N. 37½° E. of her present position, where she will be about 3$\frac{4}{10}$ miles N. 68½° E. from the Kintoan Beacon.

The Middle Ground Lower Buoy will be shifted to a spot from which House Island Surveying Beacon bears N. 11° W. distant about 1$\frac{1}{10}$ miles. This buoy in its new position will mark the south-western or port side of the channel entering. It will be painted black and surmounted with a black spherical cage.

The Middle Ground Upper Buoy will be shifted to a spot from which Kintoan Beacon bears S. 12° W. distant about 2$\frac{1}{10}$ miles, where it will mark the port side of the channel entering, and the north-western end of the long ongue or shoal into which the former Middle Ground has developed. This buoy will be painted black and surmounted by a black cylindrical cage.

A red conical buoy surmounted with a black spherical cage, and to be known as the South-east Knoll Buoy, will be moored [with Small Kintoan Beacon S. 87° W. distant about 2$\frac{5}{10}$ miles] off the outer or seaward end of the South-easternmost of a line of knolls which are developing off the south-western side of Blockhouse Shoal. This buoy will mark the starboard side of the channel entering.

All bearings are magnetic.

The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, DECEMBER 29TH, 1891.

If the English take their pleasures sadly it may perhaps also be said that they take their troubles lightly. The past two years have been a period of very painful monetary stringency in the Colony, few have escaped the pinch of hard times, but the community has nevertheless steadily gone on increasing its expenditure on amusements. The report of the Committee of the City Hall shows that the rent received for the St. Andrew's Hall, Theatre, and Ball Room amounted during the year ended the 30th June last to $8,403. During the previous year the income from this source was $6,904, and during the year ended the 30th June, 1889, $5,273. It would seem therefore that Hongkong has not been so far depleted of cash as to be rendered incapable of enjoying itself or of paying for the fun. This steady addition to the income has placed the finances of the City Hall in a sounder position than they have hitherto held. On the 30th June, 1888, the balance in hand was $3,450, on the same date of 1889 it was $5,122, 1890 $8,478, and 1891 $11,861. As the institution has become better able to pay its own way the subscriptions have naturally declined, being only $760 last year as against $1,144 three years ago. It would seem that the period is approaching when the appeal for subscriptions may be altogether withdrawn and at the same time the usefulness of the institution be extended. On the latter point, however, the views of the shareholders will have to be considered. If the institution continues to show an increasing annual profit it will not be unnatural on the part of the shareholders if they begin to look for some return in the shape of interest or dividend, for when they provided the funds wherewith to erect the handsome structure they did so, not exactly as a free gift, but rather as an advance or loan, to be repaid when circumstances rendered it possible. With the lapse of time, the continual changes in the community, and the consequent forgetfulness or ignorance of the circumstances under which the City Hall was built, the sense of the obligation which the community owes to the shareholders has been almost completely lost sight of. While their generosity in the past may be taken as a guarantee that the shareholders are not likely to be exacting in the future, it is at the same time well to keep in mind the fact that they have a claim.

While recognising the shareholders' claim, however, the City Hall must be looked upon primarily as a public institution, and when its funds are increasing the question naturally suggests itself whether its usefulness could not also be increased. At the annual meeting last year the Chairman referred to the interest taken by the Chinese community in the museum, and went on to say that as an encouragement to the Chinese to take a greater interest in the institution, the Committee would have to take into consideration, when the funds allowed of it, the formation in connection with the library of a Chinese reading room where the Chinese newspapers could be seen, and which would contain a library of Chinese translations of Western literature. The idea of establishing a Chinese reading room is a good one, though the utility of such a room would no doubt be greater if it were located in the Chinese quarter of the town and conducted as a separate institution rather than in the City Hall. At the annual meeting last year reference was also made to the want of modern books of reference in the library. It did not transpire at yesterday afternoon's meeting that anything had been done in respect of either of the matters named. Nor would we be disposed to place these matters as the very first which should receive the attention of the Committee. The most urgent want seems to be the placing of current periodical literature on the tables of the reading room, the keeping of the room open during hours when it might be availed of by those who are engaged in business during the day, and, thirdly, the establishment of a circulating branch of the library. The difficulty in the way hitherto has been the want of funds. With regard to the provision of current literature, such as a few good weekly newspapers, including the illustrated and comic journals, $250 a year would practically cover what is required, and an item of that amount would not have seemed very startling in connection with the accounts for last year. The number of visitors to the reading room last year was 2,236, or an average of about seven a day, but with current literature on the tables and the reading room open at hours when it could be availed of there can be no doubt the number would be largely increased. At present there is very little inducement to visit the reading room, and at the hours when people might be induced to go it is closed.

It appears that the experiment of keeping the library open in the evenings from eight o'clock to eleven was tried in 1872, when the Government paid the expense of the gas consumed, but it proved a failure and the Committee came to the conclusion that it was useless to keep the library open to the public after sunset. That the experiment should have proved a failure under the circumstances is not surprising, but with current literature on the tables the result would probably have been very different, for reading rooms are frequented not so much for the reading of books as for the reading of newspapers. It must be borne in mind, too, that the European resident population has largely increased since 1872. Moreover, the hour is selected for the 1872 experiment were probably not the most suitable. If a trial in this direction were to be made again it would be well simply to keep the reading room open until seven or half-past instead of closing it at five. It may be said that in Hongkong after business hours people seek outdoor recreation, but there are many who would be glad to spend half-an-hour in the reading room before or after their evening walk, and during the winter months, when tennis or other outdoor recreation is impracticable after six o'clock, the reading room would, there is every reason to believe, always be well filled between that hour and dinner time. In the summer, on the other hand, many people would look in to see the papers for half-an-hour before going for their walk. We have heard it remarked that in this colony people subscribe themselves for what papers they want, and that they have scarcely got through those arriving by one mail before the next mail comes in. This is true in a great many cases, but in conducting a public reading room it is not the merchant or professional man who has to be considered so much as those with very small salaries, and an element not to be lost sight of are the schoolboys. In all public reading rooms at home a large sprinkling of schoolboys may be found looking over the illustrated papers, and these, it need hardly be remarked, have a valuable educational influence. The number of persons in Hongkong to whom a public reading room well stocked with current literature would be a boon is every year increasing, and we hope soon to see the want supplied. In the City Hall we already have the room provided and the only outlay required is the small sum necessary to defray the subscriptions to the newspapers and periodicals and the cost of a couple of hours' gas per night. The question of providing a circulating library presents more difficulties, and if it is to be dealt with by the Committee of the City Hall it must perforce be allowed to stand over for the present, for although the state of the funds of that institution leads us to hope that the Committee may see its way to provide current literature for the reading room the amount in hand is hardly sufficient to warrant such a costly experiment as the establishment of a circulating library might prove to be.

A serious accident befel a seaman on Sunday night at the Seamen's Club, Queen Road East. The unfortunate man was sitting on the rail of the verandah and lost his balance, falling heavily into the road below. When picked up it was found that he had fractured his collar bone, and his removal to the Hospital was necessary.

There were 1,569 visitors to the City Hall Museum last week, of whom 103 were Europeans. The Museum was closed on Friday and Saturday, those days being holidays.

The latest official reports on the rice-crop in the Ayuthia district, says the Bangkok Times, are to the effect that from one-third to one-half of the crops are being ruined for want of water, and by the worms.

An extensive fire occurred at Bangkok on the 13th inst. in which a large number of native houses were destroyed, the damage being estimated at $50 000. It was believed that several lives had been lost in the fire.

Yesterday morning Mr. Wise awarded $5 to a Chinaman who jumped into the water from his sampan to effect the rescue of a woman whom he observed attempting suicide. In this he was successful and the woman was brought up at the Police Court, charged with the attempt. After being duly cautioned she was dismissed.

The Christmas offertory at St. John's Cathedral, in aid of the establishment at Tokyo of an industrial home for girls rendered destitute by the recent earthquake in Japan, amounted to $204.42. Any further subscriptions will be gladly received and forwarded by the Rev. D. Hamilton, Acting Cathedral Chaplain, St. Paul's College.

A petroleum "pool" at Singapore has succeeded in raising the price from $1.62½ per case for Devoe's and $1.57½ for Russian in the beginning of October, to $1.95 and $1.90 respectively, being an increase of 32½ cents, or 20 per cent. The pool took over the local stock and the stock afloat "to arrive" from all its members at a fixed price and is now selling at fixed rates.

The Secretary of the Punjom Mining Company informs us that letters received yesterday from the mines report that the Jalis Mill was stopped at the end of last month, and cleaned up as follows:—147 ounces smelted gold from 282 tons crushed, equivalent to nearly 10½ dwts. per ton. Crushing was resumed on the morning of the 8th. This result shews an improvement on former crushings, the last being an average of only 9½ dwts. per ton. Mr. Blamey had been unwell for a few days, and was unable to send the usual report.

Herr Friedenthal, whose pianoforte recitals have provided such delightful musical treats upon two previous occasions, will this evening, assisted by Mrs. D. Gillies and Herr G. von Wille, give his last grand concert. The talented artiste has just returned from Macao, where his performances have been highly appreciated, and his final appearance this evening ought to attract a large audience. The programme is exceptionally attractive. The first part opens with the well-known Sonate Appassionata of Beethoven and includes also the cradle song of Greig. Part 2 is almost entirely devoted to Wagner, and such an opportunity of hearing the best of the great orchestral composer's works ought certainly not to be missed.

On the 24th instant a brilliant entertainment was given by the Governor of Macao and his wife. The salons of Government House had been elegantly decorated for the occasion, and there were present about sixty ladies and more than a hundred and fifty gentlemen. At half-past ten the first quadrille was danced, which was followed by a waltz. After this a concert was given in which Miss Howard, Senhora Maria Couto, and the celebrated pianist Mr. Albert Friedenthal took part. At midnight an adjournment was made to the Government House chapel for the Christmas mass. This concluded, champagne was served to the guests, who drank to the health of His Excellency the Governor, whose birthday it was. Dancing was then resumed and continued until five o'clock in the morning.—O Independente.

The steamer Bangkok, Capt. Mayor, which left Bangkok for Chaya on the 1st inst with a cargo of rice sent by H. M. the King for the relief of the inhabitants who suffered so by the recent typhoon, has returned. The people, says the Bangkok Times, were in a sad condition when she arrived there, the crops being entirely ruined and the fruit-trees all blown down. Very scanty supplies of fish and occasional herbs were all they had been living on, and as many were without shelter, and it was raining heavily day and night, the whole country being two or three feet deep in water, the miserable state of things may be imagined. The Relief Commissioners called up the officials of the villages and organised a system of immediate aid, every man, woman, and child receiving a bucketful of rice. The supply was estimated to last until about the end of this month, and further supplies will be necessary, as a considerable period must elapse before any crops can be raised. The behaviour of the sufferers during the severe trial is described as admirable.

The Rangoon Gazette of the 11th December says:—The local authorities at Momein are apparently somewhat annoyed at our having established a post on the Nampaung stream. It seems that some alarm has been caused among the common people, who have got it into their heads that the establishment of this post, taken in connection with the visit of the Commander-in-Chief and of General Stewart to Bhamo, can mean nothing less than a threatened invasion of China. Under these circumstances the Wun of Momein has written to the Deputy Commissioner asking that the troops may be withdrawn. The Deputy Commissioner has sent a polite answer explaining that he cannot withdraw the post, which has been established under the orders of Government, informing the Wun that the intention of establishing the post has been communicated to the Chinese Government at Peking, and dilating upon the advantages to trade which will result from the protection to be afforded to caravans by our posts at Munaung and Nampaung. The correspondence between the Wun and Deputy Commissioner has been couched in the most friendly terms, and there is believed to be no foundation whatever for a report which was received here on Wednesday that the Chinese had fired off some blank ammunition in the neighbourhood of the post. The strength of the garrison at the Nampaung post has been raised to 200 men, the same as that of the Mannaung post.

H. E. Major-General Barker held a farewell inspection of the A. & S. Highlanders at Happy Valley yesterday morning. Shortly before the hour named the Regiment, under the command of Colonel Chater, were drawn up in double line across the Valley to receive the General. Major-General Barker arrived on the ground shortly after half-past nine and was received with a general salute. The men were then formed into companies, and headed by the pipes, playing "The Campbells are coming," marched past the saluting base. After this the men were formed into mass column and again marched past, this item being followed by a third march past of the whole in the same formation, but at the double. The men were then divided into two solid squares, and one having been stationed at the extreme end of the valley, the others were severely tested by a series of interesting manœuvres. A similar exercise was then gone through with the remaining half, after which a march past of the whole concluded the inspection. The extensive area and even surface of the valley lent itself admirably for such a practice as was witnessed yesterday, and the highest praise deserves to be awarded to both officers and men for the account they gave of themselves, the former for the smart manner in which they handled the men, and the latter for the exceptional precision and admirable way in which they carried out the orders they received.

Sir William Robinson since his arrival has shown a laudable desire to make himself thoroughly acquainted with the Colony. If His Excellency had left his chair at home yesterday morning and taken a walk along Queen's Road he would have had an excellent opportunity of seeing the state of our principal thoroughfare in wet weather. There had been a little rain during the night and in the morning Queen's Road had an inch and a half of mud on it. In the afternoon, mirabile dictu, there were a few scrapers at work. This is an improvement which ought to be noted, but it would be more effective if the scraping were specially directed to keeping clean crossings at a few of the most important points.

Says the Bangkok Times:—The appointment of M. Pavie as Chargé d'Affaires for France at Bangkok has a political significance which cannot be misunderstood. It means that France has determined to see this Mekong dispute through to the end, and she imagines that the way to succeed is to be represented by a man who seems imbued with an unalterable idea that the Mekong exists really only for Cochin-China, just as Cochin-China was created solely for the purpose of buying French productions. It is quite amusing to read the journals published in Saigon and Haiphong just now. They teem with articles and reports on the Mekong question all set to the tune of the Marseillaise, and all beginning—"In 1867 the Delimitation Commission defined the French and Siamese boundaries." It is always the same—they never go behind the year of grace 1867, whether it be M. Delapore lecturing on the Colonies for which he used to be Under Secretary of State; M. le Baron Textor de Ravisi, communicating further proof that the Siamese are trespassers on the river; or M. Pavie, advocating the annexation of everywhere. The fact that France pays twenty-five million francs yearly to keep things going in her present possessions, and that it has more than once been a matter for consideration whether she should not abandon them altogether, seems to have no significance on the policy of acquisition; they do not seem to have the sense to say, "We are losing on Cochin-China; don't let us increase our expenses by annexing the rest of the earth." On the contrary they are sending M. Pavie, who has shown such acute symptoms of earth-hunger, to satisfy his appetite at the expense of Siam. We seldom prophesy, but we think it is safe to predict that such doubtful diplomacy will meet with failure.

On the 4th inst. a serious outbreak occurred at the Bangkok Gaol, which was only repressed by the military guard, with some difficulty. Twelve Sikh guards, we learn from the Bangkok Times, were engaged by the Government early in the week, and eleven of these were on duty at the time referred to. The prisoners, in batches of about three hundred each, were in separate sheds, having their suppers, and one of the Sikhs ordered a number of them to sit closer. They did not obey, and he used force to compel them, whereupon the whole of the gang of three hundred men attacked him and the other Indians, using as missiles the brickbats which composed the pathways. The Sikhs, who were only armed with long bamboos, ran towards the gate, receiving many wounds from the missiles hurled after them by the pursuing mob. At the wall they were brought to bay, and within a few seconds would probably have been killed, when a guard of twenty-four soldiers, who had hurried round from the adjoining guard-room, appeared on the broad parapet above, and were ordered to fire. They did so once or twice without causing the mob to retreat, but a succeeding volley was more effective, one prisoner being shot dead, another receiving a bullet in the chest with probably fatal results, and three others being wounded in the lower parts of the body. The rest fled at once, and were soon secured, reinforcements of military and police having arrived. One the Sikhs was apparently seriously injured internally, and all were bleeding considerably. Fortunately Dr. Willis, the visiting surgeon, was in the gaol at the time, so that aid was at hand. The Governor, Phra Apai Luang Anamat Manpokit, Chief Inspector of the City Police, and many leading officials arrived in a few minutes, and order was promptly restored. Rifles had already been provided for the Sikhs, we understand, and would have been served out in a day or two, in which case, probably, the emeute would not have reached such serious proportions. As it was, only the close proximity of the strong military guard, and the alacrity with which they turned out, saved the men's lives.

FOOTBALL.

HONGKONG FOOTBALL CLUB v. LIEUT. DUNDAS'S TEAM.

A football match as above under Association rules was played at Happy Valley yesterday afternoon. The match as at first advised was the Club v. United Services, but this match fell through, and the above, which was more or less a scratch match, was played in its place. The Club were four short and their places were supplied by four substitutes from the Regiment, who rendered able assistance. A start was made shortly after half-past four, Dundas's team kicking off from the village end. The Club were the first to show to the front and within a few minutes of play scored their first goal. After this event for a time some very even though not particularly brilliant play was exhibited on both sides. Groom and Slade for the Club and Loring and Cay for the opposite team put in some very sound work, but no score resulted. Gradually Dundas's team, thanks to the good services of the two players just mentioned, ably seconded by Williams, gained a corner. Nothing resulted from this and some good back play on the part of Ezekiel and Wallace carried the ball out of danger for a time. Dundas's team, however, once more drove the ball back to the centre, and from this point Cay, with a sidedrib dribble, took the ball within five yards and planted a capital goal, thus equalising matters. Even play was again the rule, the Club having slightly the advantage, Groom making some capital runs, but failing to score, although some very near shots were made by him. Matters then turned in favour of Dundas's team and Watson and Loring made some capital shots at the Club goal. Luck, however, was not on their side, the ball in several instances going just over the crossbar. A long drive by Wallace was taken up by the Club forwards, who carried the ball well down the field with such good result that a shot from the left landed between the uprights, thus making two goals to the credit of the Club, while their opponents' score remained still at one only. Some very good attempts were made on the part of Dundas's team, but the score remained unaltered at half time. On play being resumed, Dundas's team began to act on the offensive and for some ten minutes play was almost entirely confined to the Club quarters. After about ten minutes' play, during which time Dundas's team had managed to gain three corners in quick succession, the ball having travelled about half way up the ground was smartly returned by Stewart and after a pretty piece of combined play Dundas's team scored their second goal. An appeal against the point on the ground of "off side" was not upheld by the umpire. With the exception of occasional relief owing to several good runs on the part of Atkinson and Groom, the play was still confined to the Club's quarters and the Club goalkeeper had rather a lively time of it. The goalkeeper, Anderson, however, aided by a good deal of luck, managed to prevent further damage and the game ended in a draw, each side having scored two goals. The following were the sides:—

CLUB:—W. V. Anderson, E. S. Ezekiel, W. H. Wallace, H. W. Slade, P. Groom, Bal and J. M. Atkinson, and four others.

LIEUT. DUNDAS'S TEAM—Corpl. Inglis, C. Cay, Lieut. Jackson, Lieut. Loring, Pte. Stewart, Pte. Watson, Capt. Williams, Lieut. Dundas, Lane, Capt. Henderson, Lieut. Maclean.

THE CHARGE AGAINST MR. J. F. WEBBER.

John Francis Webber was brought up at the Police Court yesterday on remand before Mr. Wise, charged with perjury.

Mr. Dennys appeared for the prosecution.

Mr. Dennys—Your Worship, I do not propose to proceed with this case any further so far as my client is concerned.

His Worship—You mean to say that you have no further evidence to offer?

Mr. Dennys—I have none, your Worship.

His Worship—Very well, what have the Police to say regarding this case?

Detective-Sergeant Green—We have no further evidence to offer, your Worship.

His Worship—Under these circumstances I cannot detain the defendant any longer. He is discharged.

Defendant then left the Court.

THE CITY HALL.

The annual meeting of the shareholders in and the subscribers to the City Hall was held yesterday afternoon. Hon. J. J. Keswick (Chairman) occupied the chair, and there were also present Messrs. H. Hoppius, H. L. Dalrymple, B. Layton, and H. L. Dennys (Secretary). The proceedings were purely formal, the report submitted being accepted without discussion.

The CHAIRMAN said—Gentlemen, the report showing the present condition of the building and the uses to which various portions of it have been put during the year from July, 1890, to June, 1891, has been published, and from this it may be gathered that the usefulness of the institution, as shewn by the manner in which it has been availed of and from the increased receipts, has in no way diminished. The balance in the Bank to the credit of the City Hall on the 30th June amounted to $11,364.67, which is a satisfactory sum; but taking into consideration the extraordinary expenses which arise from time to time, and the obligation which your Committee feel to make the lighting of the building as good as possible, the theatre of course included, the balance of money in hand is none too large to meet the inevitable calls upon it. That the City Hall, which was opened in 1869, has fulfilled the principal objects of its founders in providing a suitable place of resort, entertainment, and convenience for many public purposes is evident, but the revenue from it has not been what had been hoped for, and it is to be regretted that we seem likely to be exposed to considerable legal expenses in consequence of the assumption by the Government of the foreshore rights of the property. It will be within the recollection of all present that the Committee felt it incumbent upon them to advance a claim upon the foreshore, which is now in course of reclamation. It had been a matter of some surprise that no communication whatever was made to the City Hall Committee in reference to the reclamation, as the property is held like any other Marine Lot, and they had no option but to commence a suit in the name of the only one of the Crown lessees still resident in Hongkong. As stated in the report, an application for an injunction to restrain the Government from proceeding with the reclamation was refused, stating, however, that if the City Hall had suffered it could be settled by monetary compensation, and the matter has been allowed to stand over, but will engage early attention. Marine Lot 82 is entitled to the same benefits under the Ordinance as are conferred on the other Marine Lots, and we consider that it should have been included in section 7 of the schedule published in the Gazette on the 7th of July, 1889. The building is in a very excellent state of repair throughout, and some improvements have been carried out in the theatre, chiefly as regards the stage; and I doubt if there is anything we could do further without having recourse to some structural change. That, however, we are not at present in a position to consider. I do not think there is anything else of interest to which I should refer which is not treated of in the report, and I shall therefore, with your permission, move the adoption of the report and the accounts unless there are any questions to be asked.

Mr. H. HOPPIUS seconded, and the report was unanimously received and adopted.

This concluded the business of the meeting.

15th December.

The simile drawn by "B" in the Times, as quoted by London and China Express (of Oct. 23rd), is a ridiculous one, as there is no similarity between the "Salvation Army at Eastbourne and Missionaries in China" whatever, and the remarks by the London and China Express are equally absurd. To say that "the presence of the missionaries in China is distasteful to many, is a thorn in the Chinese flesh," goes for nothing. This is only saying in another form that "the presence of Foreigners in China is distasteful to the Chinese." The Chinese don't hate the missionary as a missionary, or as a religious teacher; only so far as he is a Foreigner does this feeling prevail. The Chinese have not a sufficiently clear apprehension of the force and energy of Christianity to hate it; not one in ten thousand, even of those who are called the literati, has any intelligent view of the truths taught by the missionary. The ordinary literary Chinaman plays on three strings to the crowds he wishes to inflame to mob violence: one is, "the missionary has no ancestral worship," another is, "the missionary's kidnapping of children and disembowelling the dead! the third is, "they bring the cursed opium to our country!!" Thus in his opposition to the missionary he has not a single intelligent argument to enforce. Now if anything will produce hatred, envy, and jealousy in the heart of a Chinaman towards Foreigners the touching of his pocket is that thing. He will suffer many things at the hands of outsiders quite patiently. Two Foreign religions are not only tolerated in China, but one of them is almost universally patronised. A Mahommedan is allowed even to take office, and that, too, to the highest rank in the empire. Ma, the Viceroy of Nanking, who was assassinated some years ago, was a staunch believer and follower of the False Prophet. The wives and sisters and mothers of mandarins, gentry, and literati are allowed perfect liberty to go and worship the Buddha of the West, and even the strong-minded ones amongst their males are often glad of the services of the priests and nuns of Buddha. They would even allow to-morrow an image of Jesus in their temples could they make money out of it. An impression is left on the minds of those Europeans and Americans who read those articles in the newspapers describing the "Present Situation in China" as though the missionaries were the whole and sole cause of the late disturbances and riots. It is not fair, it is dishonest in the face of so many indisputable facts brought so prominently before their eyes of late, for those writers to write in such a strain. Not to mention the "opium merchants," we will only speak of those articles which the Chinese people take kindly to from the Foreign merchants. The silk-weaving trade is being ruined by the introductions of Foreign imitations of silk and satin goods, and the silk weaver can scarcely give the missionary a civil answer when he goes to see him at work with his rude but effective machine of many hundred years' standing. The oil merchant of China, in inland cities, is perfectly rude to us when we ask a few questions, and, they detest us for the sake of the Foreign kerosine or paraffin merchant, who floods the country with his mineral oil. The simple cotton weaver curses the American drills and Manchester shirtings and those who bring them into the country. Even the tinder or punk dealers cry aloud against the match-makers and the match merchants. The dealers in brass ware are feeling the imports of tin ware. The literati now-a-days discard the red, green, and white candles of the native tallow-chandler and buy the wax candle from the hated Foreigner! The rice merchants declare that the Foreigner has outdone them along the coast by the easy and rapid mode of bringing rice by steamer conveyance, and the coast junkman has such a detestation of the steamer and its Foreign crew as to make him sometimes so egregiously sullen and stubborn that he will rather run the risk of being run down by the steamer than try to get out of its way; so intensely mad is he against steamers and their owners! Everywhere the missionary goes he meets with something introduced by the Foreign merchant that has greatly injured for the present native dealers and native artizans. The Foreign merchant at the Ports does not know how much he is indebted to missionaries for the defence of his trade and commerce. The missionary explains again and again how the great mass of the people are benefitted, and that the native dealers, tradesmen, and craftsmen will have their turn also; if they go in for such articles of import as the people take favourably to. In the meantime the anti-Foreign feeling is burning intensely in the breasts of those native dealers, shopkeepers, and handicraftsmen, and this feeling is communicated to the mass of the people—even to those who are the most benefitted by Foreign wares—when occasion requires that they shall be set on fire with antipathy to the hated yet dreaded Foreigner! It is unjust, then, in those writers of articles on "The Situation in China" to so manipulate their materials as to make it appear that the destruction of property, loss of life, mob-violence and riots along the Yangtsze of late have all been brought about directly or indirectly by the ill-abused missionary; and he is coolly asked to "retire lest he does more harm than good!!!"

16th December.

The woman mentioned in a previous note as starving herself to death, and who was being worshipped as a goddess, is dead. Some smart but hard-up fellows seized the corpse and put it up in wax, and gave out that she was a "living Buddha!" And they were making a pretty penny out of the deluded worshippers when the ori-fu, or deputy prefect, came upon them and gave orders for the husband to come and take her corpse away. He did so, but, according to the practice of the Chu-ki people in such cases they threw her body into the river "for the fishes to feed on." Her husband and friends said "she was a wicked woman and did not deserve burial." A shocking end this to one so recently worshipped as a goddess.

At a large village about three English miles from this city, called Loo-kia-tsang, a man promised to give his daughter in marriage to the son of an old friend, who was very poor. Time went on, the girl grew up, but was kept at home with her parents. The family of the bridegroom grew impatient, and concluded that the delay was on account of their poverty, so they resolved to resent such perfidious conduct, and got a boat ready, and enlisted the sympathy and help of nine or ten of their clan. Then getting the go-between to go with them to point out the girl, they determined to carry her away by force. Having arrived at the place, they saw two girls about the same size and age washing rice at the water's edge. The middle-woman pointed with her finger towards the betrothed girl, who immediately ran away into the house to her parents. The men in the boat, not knowing which was which, in the hurry seized the girl that was left (who was the daughter of a neighbour), and hastened away with their prize, rowing with might and main towards their home. They had not gone far before they heard behind them in close pursuit such horrid yelling as made them tremble, and on looking behind they saw seven or eight fishing boats, each with eight or ten men in them. These hardy fishermen soon came up with these mistaken kidnappers, and seizing the girl they put her in one of the boats and conveyed her home. The rest seized their opponents, dragged them ashore into the Ancestral Hall of the Wang family, strung them up by their hands, and gave them and the go-between a terrible beating. The go-between begged for pardon on the ground that she was compelled to come by the party of the bridegroom's family, and that it was by no means willingly on her part that she was present. The family of the stolen girl then mulcted the captured party in six tables of viands and a play for the benefit of the gods and villagers who had helped in rescuing their daughter out of the hands of these ruffians.

An ingenious camera for photographing the internal organs of men or animals has been invented in Germany. It is cylindrical in shape, is contained in a rubber tube, and has two hemispherical shutters and two minute incandescent lamps. Pressing a pneumatic ball moves the camera forward in the tube, opens the shutters, and makes the electric light contact. Removing the pressure closes the shutters, puts out the lights, and replaces the camera.

In three cases of gastric ulcer reported by Dr. Horsley recovery has followed a diet of ice cream. The first patient, a woman of 35, had lost 25 pounds, and suffered great pain. At her desire, she was given from 1 to 3 quarts daily of ice cream for 2 months, when she had gained 24 pounds, and her ordinary diet was gradually resumed.

Hypnotism is simply a new name for mesmerism, stated Prof. Calderwood of Edinburgh, in a recent lecture. The condition is one of lucid sleep. It is artificially induced, but not by anything in the nature of electricity or magnetism, and no influence emanates from the body of the operator. The result, in the opinion of the lecturer, may be attributed to the wearying of a single organ or line of nerve. The character of the mesmeric sleep is torpor, the cataleptic state, or the state of the somnambulist. Many, and perhaps all, people are liable to it, but not against their will. The operator cannot regulate the actions of the patient, but must make the suggestion clear to his subject, who interprets and applies it for himself. The study of hypnotism for the cure of disease and as an anaesthetic is desirable, but public exhibitions should be forbidden by law.

There are reasons for supposing that some optical disturbance, similar to that which produced the wonderful sunsets following the Krakatoa eruption, has recently been present in the atmosphere. Sunsets of more than ordinary brilliancy were reported last winter, and Herr Busch now finds, from a record of polariscope observations kept for some years, that the air in February and May last was really different optically from that of the previous three years, and more nearly like that of 1886. Of the beginning, extent, and cause of this last disturbance nothing is known.

A new Parisian paving consists of pieces of split oak, about 4 inches long, stood on end in fine sand on a 4-inch bed of gravel. A layer of fine sand is spread over all, and alternately beaten and watered several times. The swelling of the wood, after about two days, is claimed to produce a perfectly compact and homogeneous mass, which will support any traffic.

It is said to be a fact, though not generally known, that the light of the sun and the moon exercises a deleterious effect on knives and other edge tools.

While rain-producing experiments have been in progress in America, scientific men in Europe have been studying to influence the weather in a very different way. Around Tarbes, a district of France, serious damage to crops and vineyards has been caused for many years by a number of violent storms of rain and hail annually. To avert these disasters, the director of the observatory on the Pic du Midi has arranged a series of high poles, surmounted by cups of metal and connected by wires, on the hills about the district. It is hoped that this arrangement may reduce the severity of the storms by lessening the electrical tension of the clouds.

In demonstrating that sulphur, which melts at about 240 deg. Fahr., can be cooled in paper, M. Charles Lepierre used a lithographed card, and was surprised to find that the lithographed characters remained firmly imprinted upon the cooled sulphur. In subsequent experiments he has obtained very fine impressions. The sulphur may be made to receive designs, especially maps and charts, in graphite or coloured crayons, and in writing, typographical, lithographic, and other inks.

A new artificial honey, called "sugar-honey," bids fair to become a formidable rival of the natural product. It consists of sugar, a small proportion of mineral salts, water, and a free acid. In taste and smell it closely resembles the genuine honey.

The first iron bridge built in 1778 still spans a little river between Worcester and Shrewsbury, Eng. It is about 96 feet long, and weighs 378 tons.

A German writer refers to the fact that honey in its natural state will keep for years, but quickly ferments after being purified. Raw honey appears, therefore, to contain some volatile preservative. Investigation proves that such is really the case, and that the ingredient is formic acid, which also gives rise to the inflammation from the stings of bees and wasps. It was formerly supposed that this acid merely served the insects for self-protection, but it is now known that it also preserves the honey in the comb. An oft-verified observation is that the more frequently bees have been enraged the more harsh and bitter is their honey, and this is because the bees run out their stings when angry, and at the same time deposit a drop of formic acid.

Among the achievements of the camera has been the detection of skin disease before the eye could discover any symptoms. A later and even more striking feat is the location of tumours on the brain by instantaneous photography. A tumour on the brain causes violent spasms by pressing on a nerve centre, and while the patient is in the midst of a spasmodic attack he is photographed, the nerves affected are determined by the pictured contortions, and the tumour is readily located.

ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY.
WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:—Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 13,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published.

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally.

It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.

4 Vols. Imperial Quarto, Price, $20.

A Large REDUCTION in PRICE is made to Purchasers of SIX or more Copies.
